Campion Autos Vandalized

Three S.U. students found themselves especially hard hit last week as an outburst of vandalism struck Campion's parking lot.

Senior Bill Holland suffered the worst loss. His '67 Camaro, stolen from the lot Wednesday night, was recovered Thursday near Franklin High School, minus engine, transmission, and other accessories.

Holland's room mate, Bob Reynolds, found the top and upholstery of his small foreign convertible in ribbons Wednesday morning. The dashboard wiring had also been ripped out.

TUESDAY MORNING, Campion resident Bob Chambers discovered a large tear in the convertible roof of his MGB. Nothing was stolen from the car.

In each instance, the car was locked. All losses were covered by the owners' insurance.

Mr. Phil Seeley, Campion Tower manager, noted that automobile break-ins in the student lot had, in the last 30 days, exceeded those for the last six months.

"IT'S A SAD SITUATION, and it seems to be getting worse," said Mr. Seeley. He feels that the only way to guarantee protection is to hire full time security guards to patrol the lot.

Fr. Robert Rebhahn, S.J., dean of students, agreed, but pointed out that the University's responsibility in the situation is unclear.

"I don't know how liable we are," Fr. Rebhahn said, "or whether we are obligated to guarantee protection. I'm not sure where we stand legally."

He added that he is taking steps to clarify the question.

ALTHOUGH FR. REBHAWN felt that adequate protection could only be achieved through 24-hour surveillance of the lot, he speculated that the monetary implications of such coverage could be prohibitive.

"Even if we had a security guard, one man by himself is in bad shape out there," Fr. Rebhahn continued. He also recalled that student patrols had been tried in the past, but had failed because of a decline in interest.

The Plant Management Office collects student parking fees and patrols the campus parking lots during the day, impounding parking offenders.

FOR THIS REASON, both Fr. Rebhahn and Mr. Seeley feel that their primary responsibility is in the dormitory itself, and not the parking lot. "Security in the dorm comes first," said Mr. Seeley.

Abortion Panel Here

"Life, Law, Morality: the Issues" is the topic of the first of S.U.'s three public panels discussing abortion and the November state-wide referendum, Thursday, in Pigott Auditorium.

The series, entitled "Legislation and Life" is sponsored by S.U.'s Theology Department. The following panels will discuss "The State and the Status Quo" Monday, May 11, and "Focus on the Future" Thursday, May 14.

All panels will start at 8 p.m. in Pigott Auditorium. Admission is free to the public.

Chairman of the first panel is Fr. William LeRoux, S.J., who will present an outline of the proposed legislation and a brief statement of the abortion problem and the central issue it raises.

Fr. Gerald Bussy, S.J., S.U. professor of philosophy, will speak on the dignity of man and the value of human life; Sister Diana Bader, O.P., S.U. associate professor of theology, on human life and abortion in the light of Revelation; and King County Superior Court Judge Stanley Soderland on life, law, and morality.

Responses will come from Dr. Raymond Clark, University of Washington professor of obstetrics and gynecology; Fr. James Royce, S.J., S.U. associate dean and professor of psychology; and Dr. Paul Cook, S.U. associate professor of biology.

The May 11 panel will include points of view from legal, psychiatric, sociological and medical areas. Rev. John Fearon, O.P., S.U. associate professor of theology, is panel chairman.

The third panel May 14 will spotlight views from the legislative, sociological, political and theological fields. Fr. Philip Verhalen, S.J., S.U. assistant professor of theology, will be panel chairman.

Nelson Named 1970-71 Editor

DON NELSON

Don Nelson, a 20-year-old journalism major from Kent, will be the 1970-71 editor of The Spectator.

The appointment was made today by Fr. Francis Greene, S.J., advisor to the publication.

A GRADUATE of Kent-Meridian high school, Nelson has served as a reporter and assistant news editor on The Spectator during the past two years.

He was a student senator in 1967-68, served as an officer for Alpha Phi Omega and was a committee chairman for Frosh Orientation in 1968.

Further editorial appointments will be made by the new editor next week.

Nelson was a runner-up this weekend in the Seattle Times summer internship program. He was feature editor of his high school newspaper, The Royal Herald.

KATHY MCCARTHY, a 19-year-old journalism major, will become Managing Editor. Kathy, a native of Portland, has been news editor this year.

Cambodian Symposium

A symposium composed of S.U. faculty members, will discuss U.S. actions in Cambodia tomorrow at noon in Pigott Auditorium.

Dr. John Kearney, English, and Mr. Albert Mann, history, will be the main panelists.

Dr. Charles LaCugna, political science, and Dr. Ben Cashman, chairman of the political science department, will be available for advice on technical questions.

Thomas Trebon, also of the political science department, will moderate the symposium.

June Graduation to Include Inaugural

INAUGURATION: Featured speaker at this year's S.U. Commencement will be the Very Rev. Kenneth W. Baker, S.J., President of S.U. Fr. Baker will also be inaugurated at the ceremony. Attendance at this year's exercises will not be mandatory as in past years. Other changes have been initiated to streamline the graduation process.

Commencement 1970 will include the inauguration of the Very Rev. Kenneth W. Baker, S.J., as President of Seattle University.

The inauguration ceremony, to be conducted by the Very Rev. Joseph Perri, S.J., vice president for university relations, will be assimilated into the graduation program. Fr. Baker assumed the office of President February 1.

The charge to the graduating seniors will be delivered by Fr. Baker, who will also award the degrees. According to the office of Fr. Edmund Morton, S.J., academic vice president, no decision has been made yet as to the presentation of honorary degrees.

A MAJOR change in the commencement proceedings this year will be the elimination of required attendance at the ceremony. Seniors may graduate in absentia if they so notify the registrar's office.

July Workshop Planned

A three-day workshop on human relations will be held at S.U. July 17, 18 and 19 by "An Action Caravan for Human Relations."

The traveling workshop, presented by the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice, will be conducted by a four-member college faculty team.

The team, comprised of Catholic sisters, will present current information and insights on the inter-group relations, particularly poverty and racism, as they exist in the U.S. today.

THE WORKSHOP is being sponsored by the Archdiocese Office of Education, Catholic Interracial Council of Seattle, Office of Religious Education (C.C.D.), and S.U.

Sister Teresa Risse, O.P., a

Graduation week will be a busy one for those receiving degrees. Commencement practice will be Friday afternoon, June 5, in the AstroTurf Room of the Connolly P.E. Center. Attendance is suggested but not mandatory.

Baccalaureate Mass, at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 6, will be followed by the graduates' brunch in the Campion cafeteria.

A RECEPTION honoring the graduates and their parents will be held Saturday evening, also in Campion Tower. Invitations will be sent to parents, husbands, and wives of the graduating.

The commencement ceremony will take place Sunday afternoon, beginning at 3 p.m.

Graduating seniors who do not take care of all outstanding fines and loans before June 3 will have their diplomas retained by S.U.

teacher at Our Lady of Mt. Virgin elementary in Seattle, is workshop chairman.

Workshop committee members assisting are Robert Santos, chairman of the Catholic Interracial Council of Seattle; Walter T. Hubbard, chairman of the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice, and Fr. Roger Blanchette, S.J., of S.U.'s theology dept.

earth day?

To the editor:

It was a little hard to believe that in the recent "Earth Day," organized by the AWS, the ASSU, and the Political Union, Dr. R. H. Berg, assistant professor in the Civil Engineering Department, was not asked to speak on the program.

This spring quarter I have been attending a course taught by Dr. Berg that has so far concerned the following topics: river self-purification, toxicity, pesticides, oil spills, radioactivity, thermal pollution, and several specific types of industrial pollution.

It is therefore beyond my comprehension how a university professor who teaches topics such as these could be completely overlooked when the very subjects that "Earth Day" was supposed to concern itself with are being taught by him on this very campus.

Joe Miller
Civil Engineering

earth #2

To the editor:

It is more than obvious to The Spectator's readers that over the last few days Seattle University has enthusiastically participated in the "environmental" fad that is sweeping the nation. Unlike the rest of the country, though, Seattle University has taken a firm and serious grip on the issue. Starting with the editorial of April 21, the whole approach to the environmental problem taken by The Spectator is more in harmony with the news media which caters to the public mentality, rather than of a paper that supposedly represents the academic atmosphere associated with a university.

The seriousness of the whole issue on campus is clearly exemplified by the fact that the only academically qualified authority in pollution on campus, Dr. R. H. Berg of the civil engineering department, received no invitation to participate in the "Earth Day" program, yet a member of the theology department did share her views on the issue. (Dr. Berg has only recently undertaken research for the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration—providing the only Federal Research Grant in recent S.U. history.) The fact that a member of the Theology department was asked as a speaker seems to imply that Miss Morgan's AWS, as well as the ASSU and the Political Union, believe that Faith provides an answer to all problems—a view probably obtained from some of the core courses.

The Spectator's readers must have been immensely impressed by the Civil Engineering courses listed in the article "Ecology Problems, Courses Offered" (April 21). One small fact was omitted in this article which might interest the more practical-minded readers. Not one of those listed courses has been offered by the C.E. department and probably never will be offered, since the only qualified instructor in the pollution field is leaving S.U. this June. With this new vacancy in engineering, it may prove fruitful for S.U. to transfer a member of the theology department into engineering, thus reducing the financial burden of the University, and the same time presenting the C.E. students a new dimension in pollution control.

Geza Palotas

Editor's note: The attitudes in the above letters are typical of many of the narrow "scholars" here at S.U. The cry of "student apathy" is often all too correct; but many of those who feel that students are only following fads offer no counter proposals.

If the writers of these letters felt that the AWS-planned program was insufficient, why didn't they plan an Earth Day presentation by the School of Engineering? Why didn't they suggest Dr. Berg as a speaker at the AWS panel? Why don't they set up a presentation now? (If concern for the environment is to be more than a "passing fad", it should not be confined to one day.)

As for the courses mentioned, The Spectator obtained its information from the current Bulletin. If these courses aren't being offered, why don't the undersigned either request that they be offered or be removed from the Bulletin?

Constructive action would be more welcome than negative criticism.

phooey

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that Sen. Goldwater and the image of our school had to suffer indignities at the hands (or should I say months) of a small loudmouth minority. When Aaron Dixon spoke on campus the students showed him the courtesies shown an invited guest, no boo's, no noise. We just listened.

I didn't agree with everything that Sen. Goldwater said but I showed him the courtesy of listening. Courtesy comes cheap—very little work required.

The question was asked about whether the money spent on the war should be funneled to welfare and the dole for those too decadent, and too lazy to work. To them I say PHOOEY. Put it back into the war where it belongs. Let's end the war after we have unconditionally won it.

To those students who are in the loud minority I'll say again what I said in the AstroGym: "If you don't like it here, Buddy, Leave." This is a private school and on private property. No one twists your arm to be here, so if you don't like the teachings of the Church and school then leave.

John F. Losey

Sounding Board:

BYU Decision Outlined

To the editor:

Following is the statement read by Senator Kathy Lotzgesell and authorized by myself concerning the BYU contracts which was given prior to the Senate's decision of April 14 to recommend severing relations with BYU."

By the refusal of the Church of the Latter Day Saints to allow blacks into the priesthood, they are in effect denying him the right to full membership in that religion. At this point I hope that the racist doctrine of this religion can be clearly seen.

The problem we now face is how to effectively deal with that fact within our own framework, said framework being athletic contests with Brigham Young. Herein lies the problem: although it is owned and operated by the Mormon Church and accepts the Mormon religion as its theological basis, B Y U does not practice racism in its admissions, hiring, etc. While we must take a strong stand against the doctrine of racism practiced in the Mormon Church, how do we do so without hurting those individuals (students, faculty, and administrators) who are not practicing and do not hold a doctrine of racism? It has been stated, and perhaps reasonably so, that it is impossible to have a relationship between BYU and the Mormon Church without maintaining the racial posture of the Mormon Church. BYU does obey the law, but very possibly only out of fear of legal action which could prove damaging to BYU. If, however, we are to have a truly free society, we must not fall into the trap of guilt by association for to do so would place us in the same area of bigotry as the Mormon Church. It seems to me that any action which we may take against the Mormon Church (by action concerning the basketball games) will cause not in any way nearly the hardships and the injustice which is caused by the actual practice of racism as perpetuated in the Mormon religion. I suppose the entire issue comes down to degree, that is weighing the degree of injustice and insult against the black students at Seattle U. as compared to the possibility of incidental harm which may come to BYU. It is hoped that by our action as well as hoping to directly influence the Mormon church, that by pointing out this inequity to the students, faculty and administration, they will come to apply pressure to the elders of the Mormon church."

If our University, our society, is to drop its monumental hypocrisy, it must start now to stand firm on the moral principles to which we are all firmly committed."

John G. Graves
ASSU 1st Vice-President

Baseballers, Golfsters Notch Impressive Victories in Latest Season Competition

GARY FOX, Chieftain mound ace, delivers towards home plate during recent contests at Sicks' Stadium.

The S.U. diamond squad ran their season log to 15-4 last weekend with an 11-1 lacing of the Shoreline Samurai on Friday and a twin bill split on Sunday.

In Sunday's dual action, S.U. took the first from Portland University's Pilots 5-0 but dropped the nightcap 6-3.

to 4-1 with the Shoreline win, and Tom Couples went to a 5-0 slate with S.U.'s first game victory against the Pilots.

S.U. had won four straight including a doubleheader victory last week over St. Martin's, 7-0 and 15-1.

Couples won his fourth game as he held St. Martin's to just one hit while John Varga and Pat Smith did the hitting damage.

LON COPENHAVER threw a four hitter in the second game for his fourth win without a loss.

• Golf

S.U.'s swingsters have improved their fortunes also, edging Western Washington State College 22½ to 4½ on Thursday at Meridian Valley.

In a four way meet Saturday, the golfsters were tied by the University of Washington at 9-9, but defeated the UPS and Portland State clubs each by a count of 11½ to 6½.

AFTER nine rounds of competition, the golfers play for numbers this way: Jim Brady (74.11), Steve Dallas (76.11), Randy Puetz (76.66), Gordy Haddad (76.78), Tom Snell (78.33) and Wes Delaney (78.58).

Summer Soccer Set in Seattle

International flavoring will spice a summer soccer schedule in the Seattle-Tacoma area.

THE SEA-TACS, a newly formed collection of some of the area's top talent mixed with some outside ingredients, have announced they will compete in the Western Canada Soccer League, an adult semi-pro circuit.

The league's Coastal Division will be composed of Sea-Tac, the Victoria Royals, the Vancouver Cougars and the Vancouver Spartans. Each team will play each other six times, splitting the competition equally between home and road games. The WCSL's Prairie Division Highlight of the Sea-Tacs' season will be the opening game, an exhibition contest Sunday, May 24, against England's First Division Newcastle United, the 1969 European Fair Cup champion.

Gametime will be 3 p.m. at Seattle's Memorial Stadium.

"Traditionally, soccer is a fall-winter sport," say the Sea-Tac Club's directors. "This will be a summer league, lasting from mid May through the end of August."

Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.00 for juniors (up to 17). They may be purchased at Fidelity Lane Ticket Office, 1622 4th Ave.

Sea-Tac has booked seven of its league games for West Seattle Stadium and the other two at the University of Puget Sound's Baker Stadium in Tacoma.

The Sea-Tacs' WCSL Coastal Division semi-pro schedule:

Sun., May 31—at Vancouver Spartans.
Sun., June 7—Victoria Royals, 2:30 p.m., West Seattle.

Senate Meets Bi-Weekly

The student senate tabled or postponed every bill before it Wednesday night, because senators have not finished preparing them.

THE SENATE then voted to meet only twice per month, since, according to chairman John Graves, "There is so little work for us to do."

Among the legislation postponed was a bill giving approval of the constitution of the Champion Dorm Council and a resolution requesting the placement of a juke box in the Chieftain cafeteria.

Senators said they hadn't had time to research a bill in the past week.

Student Positions Open

Students are still needed to staff University committees. Also, Homecoming chairmen and an election board coordinator are being sought, according to George Irwin, ASSU publicity director.

University committees with vacant student seats are: the Board of Admissions (1 seat), the Bookstore Committee (1), the Student Publications Board (1) and the Academic Council (2).

A general chairman, secretarial chairman and financial chairman are needed to plan the activities for next year's Homecoming.

The general chairman coordinates all activities while the secretarial chairman handles all correspondence connected with the events.

THE FINANCIAL chairman, preferably a business major, is in charge of keeping the books.

The election board coordinator sets election requirements, enforces the code and determines the length (days or weeks) of the election.

Applicants may contact the ASSU office from 2-4 daily. Deadline for appointments is May 12.

arson progress

No new leads have been developed on the Xavier Hall arson fire April 29.

Police arrested a 26-year-old suspect early Sunday who was driving a car similar to one seen at the fire site.

The man was apprehended after walking across the street against a traffic signal. He was later released for lack of evidence in connection with the fire, after being charged with traffic violations.

Police are searching for a blue Cadillac with a California license.

The fire did about $1,000 damage to the faculty cafeteria, second and third floors of Xavier Hall.

A campus security guard fired at three men fleeing from the scene. One was believed to have been wounded.

military queen

Myra Bisio, S.U. senior, was selected queen of the recent Military Ball held at the Elks Club.

Myra was crowned by Rear Admiral Patrick Hannifin, U.S.N.

Other members of her court included Kathy Weller, freshman, Beth Kirby, sophomore, and Judy Lindwall, junior.

honorary member

Dr. Gerald Cleveland, dean of the Business School, was initiated into Phi Chi Theta, national fraternity for women in business, at last Thursday's meeting.

Dr. Cleveland was made an honorary member.

New officers for the year were also installed at the meeting. They are: Marilyn Taylor, president; Marsha Green, vice president; Alice Kunz, secretary and Linda Knoerzer, treasurer.

photo exhibit

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday.

senate position

Student senate position No. 12 is currently open, according to George Irwin, ASSU publicity director.

The post expires at the end of this quarter and is open to juniors. Applications are available in the ASSU office. The new senator will be appointed, not elected.

Paul Chiles, who held the seat, resigned recently after becoming Political Union president.

'girls' night out

AWS is sponsoring a women's night out tomorrow at the Tabard Inn. The $1.50 affair will be held from 6:30-8 p.m. It will take the place of the senior tea.

Entertainment, wine, beer and flips will be the order of the evening. Only women are allowed.

budgets due

Club budgets for the coming year are due May 15. Completed budgets should be submitted by club treasurers to ASSU treasurer Jim Eechoudt. Budget forms are available in the ASSU office.

i. k. cruise

Tickets for the May 9 I.K. cruise to Victoria, B.C., will be on sale on campus through Friday.

A special booth in Bellarmine will be open Wednesday and Thursday nights from 7-10 p.m. in addition to the regular booths on the mall and in the Chieftain (both open 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.), and in Campion (5-6 p.m.) and Bellarmine (11 a.m.-1 p.m. and 5-6 p.m.).

Cost is $7.50 per person for the round trip cruise only, or $9 for the cruise plus lunch in Victoria.

This is the dawning of the Age of Security.

Today's college student is on to the future. He understands the importance of having financial security. And he'll start to plan for it now. By investing in a life insurance program that provides for now, and the future.

At Provident Mutual we have the precise program for college students. The earlier you start, the less it costs. And the more security you'll have a chance to build.

Give us a call. Or stop by our campus office. Make this the dawning of your Age of Security.
